

HOW TO USE THIS DIRECTORY

Each business is listed alphabetically with essential information about its operation, products, and services. Some businesses chose to pay for an enhanced listing that includes their name in larger print, their URL, and a more detailed description.

The location index provides an alphabetical listing of businesses by state, province, or insular area and by whether they produce plants or seeds.

Please remember that directories are out-of-date as soon as they are printed. Although precautions were taken to include only valid information, we cannot guarantee the accuracy of any given listing.

THE 2010 DIRECTORY

The basis for our directory is the database maintained by the USDA Forest Service, Reforestation, Nurseries and Genetics Resources (RNGR) team. Beginning this year, representatives from the University of Georgia, Southern Regional Extension Forestry (SREF) will contact everyone on the list to verify information. The database is also available and searchable on the RNGR website (<http://www.rngr.net>), which also holds a vast amount of information about growing native plants.

To report an error or omission, please contact SREF at directory@rngr.net.

In addition, each producer of native plant materials will have an opportunity to publish a free basic listing, a standard listing free to subscribers of the journal (nominal fee to nonsubscribers), or an enhanced listing for an additional fee. For more information about this service please contact Susan S Franko, Native Plant Materials Directory, PO Box 8232, Moscow ID 83843-0732; ph 208.882.2601 fax 208.882.2601.

CONSIDERATIONS WHEN PURCHASING NATIVE PLANT MATERIALS

One of the most important differences between native plant materials and ornamental nursery stock is that natives are usually outplanted in relatively harsh environments without any subsequent care. Here are a few other things to keep in mind.

Source-Identified

Native plant materials are usually source-identified, which means that the seeds or cuttings can be traced back to their collection location. Conversely, most ornamentals are introduced species that have been selected for form or color, not source of origin. The importance of proper source identification cannot be overstated—local sources are assumed to be best unless scientific data proves otherwise. It's always a good idea to ask seed and plant producers what sources they have available, rather than asking if they have a particular source in stock.

Locally Adapted

In addition to selecting the proper species and genetic source (source-identified), native plant materials must be properly acclimated or processed (hardened) so that they will survive and grow under the climatic conditions of the project site. Although the species may be "locally adapted" to grow on a particular site, if it has not been properly hardened its survival and growth will be poor. The question of whether plant materials will be hardy on the outplanting site is often overlooked.

native plant materials directory

Selecting a Nursery and (or) a Seed Producer

Native plant customers should visit local nurseries and seed production facilities and talk to the personnel. Take a walk around the operation and look at the current crop. In nurseries, remember to check the quality of the root systems as well as the shoots. In a seed production facility, check for weeds and vitality of the plants. Ask for a customer list and search out others who have purchased seeds or other plant materials. Inquire about the reputations of your potential vendors, including the success of their materials on outplanting sites.

Other Business Services

Traditionally, nurseries and seed producers merely grew plants and seeds for sale, but the current trend is to go beyond propagation to a broader range of services. Nowadays, native plant growers offer a variety of services, depending on their facilities and expertise. An increasing number of progressive nurseries provide a full range of services, from seed collection and processing, plant propagation and storage, through outplanting and follow-up care.

Communication Is Essential

Buyers of native plant materials should consider the nursery manager or seed producer as a partner in their planting project and involve them early in the planning process.

Consulting. We belong to Native Plant Society of BC. From our Zone 5 location Bluestem Nursery offers field-grown plants as well as flats of plugs, which are an inexpensive way to plant grasses in masses. Willows are an exciting new plant group. We encourage you to consider these plants, which you probably think of as only being represented by the giant weeping willow. There are many more that are suitable for even small gardens. Lots of willows have great winter color too. We sell these as cuttings and as plugs. Green roofs are a favorite subject of ours. We are taking inquiries regarding plants for this relatively new concept in roofing. We are also testing different species for their suitability, particularly in cold locations. Our website provides a wealth of information on the subject of grasses and willows and how to successfully grow and use them in the landscape. There are numerous pictures to accompany the information. Don't miss our Grass Comparison Chart! Visit Bluestem Nursery's website: <http://www.bluestem.ca>.

Whether it's grain, vegetable, wildflowers, or various grass seeds, we have a broad range of products for your selection. Browning Seed has served the seed industry since 1962. Through the years, we have developed many new hybrids, including the first triple cross sorghum-sudangrass hybrid known as Cadan 99B. Reclamation and restoration projects deserve the correct, clean, certified seed. If you're establishing a wildflower setting, check our website. You'll find seed for florals from the charming Johnny-jump-up, Indian blanket, and cornflower/bachelor's button to several arroyo lupine succulents, lemon/purple horse mint, moss verbena, and other treasures. Are you picturing acres and acres of gently swaying grass? Browning Seed has seed in quantity and special application grasses. Tour <http://www.browningseed.com> for ideas, prices, and maintenance products. We are your seed professionals.

Specializing in native plants of the Pacific and Inland Northwest. Champoeg Nursery Inc grows an extensive collection of plants that are native to the Pacific and Inland Northwest. Our palette of plants includes a variety of trees, shrubs, herbaceous perennials, groundcovers, and wetland plants. Since we have been in business, our primary goal has been to provide our customers with consistently high-quality plants and service. In doing this, we have had the opportunity to build long-lasting relationships with many public and private organizations, other nurseries, and landscapers. Our commitment to quality is the foundation of all of our working relationships, and we hope that we have the opportunity to work with you.

Great Bear Restoration (GBR) specializes in plant material from the Rocky Mountain, Intermountain West, Pacific Northwest, and Southwest Desert Regions. GBR provides full restoration services: custom seed collection, contract growing (some minor speculative production), installation, seeding, consulting, and bioengineering. We have 26 acres available for the production of large containers, wetland and upland sod. We provide plants from source-identified seed in container sizes ranging from plug trays to 15 gallon GrowBags, using a proprietary growth media enhanced with mycor-rhizal inoculum. Our consulting services include research, planning, baseline vegetation surveys, and monitoring to provide optimum restoration practices for any site.*

Hild & Associates Inc is a native plant nursery specializing in wetland species. We provide standard nursery size potted, bareroot material and contract grow for native plantings, rain gardens, and shoreline stabilizations. We are a Blue Thumb partner! Our company also provides soft armor shoreline stabilization solutions through its EcoPatch erosion control blankets, EcoPatch aquatic planting patches, and prevegetated fiber logs. EcoPatch prevege-tated erosion control blankets provide immediate vegetative cover, resulting in rapid development, effective soil and plant holding capacity, maximum seed germination and minimal loss prior to site placement. EcoPatch aquatic planting patches are excellent for planting emergent species. They are easy to plant and require no digging or substrate disturbance, while reducing loss of plants to waterfowl predation and wave action. High profile projects are immediately visually appealing, making EcoPatch an ideal choice for shoreline plantings.

We grow 850 species and varieties of woody plants for the wholesale nursery and landscape trade. We are a grower of bareroot nursery stock for the wholesale trade. Our products are grown in open fields for one or more seasons. We also have recently added greenhouse production of conifer and deciduous plugs. We propagate our nursery stock from seed, cuttings, grafts, and tissue culture. We store our crops in modern refrigerated cold storage until they are shipped. We routinely ship to the Midwest, East Coast, and Canada. Lawyer Nursery offers one of the largest selections of field-grown, bareroot, woody plants in the North American wholesale nursery trade. Bareroot material is field grown and shipped without soil. This can lower the costs of shipping compared with container-grown stock, and on a project where every penny counts, bareroot material is an advantage. Bareroot nursery stock is a great choice for nursery liners, rootstocks, Christmas tree plantations, wildlife habitats, and for conservation, mitigation, and reforestation projects. We are consistently looking for perfection in production, and we strive to produce a quality plant at an affordable price. Call Lawyer Nursery to see how our bareroot plant material can fit your project's needs.

Plants: 10,000/y, 99% native, 50% propagated, 5% wild collected; container, cuttings; tree, shrub, herbaceous, grass, wetland/aquatic. Seeds: 5 lb/y, 100% native, 90% propagated, 10% wild collected; tree, shrub, herbaceous, grass.

Encourage use of local natives. Our specialty trees are madrones and big tooth maples. We are primarily organic and foster the use of xeriscape plants.

We are a unique regional source of hard-to-find plants of the Texas hill country, especially rare madrones, maples, and witch hazel.

Native landscape installation and maintenance, custom seed mix, private land development consulting, plant identification surveys, large tree planting and moving.

Our native product is grown in central Idaho therefore is suitable for colder, higher elevation sites. We complement our hard-working native product with fruits and berries to encourage an interactive edible landscape. We grow and install. As growers and installation specialists, we consult with private landowner developers, including designing custom seed mixes, plant surveying, and planting recommendation lists and plans.

Rohdes is the oldest ongoing organic nursery in north Texas and the first commercial property to be certified as a Wildlife Habitat by both the Texas Wildscapes and the US Parks and Forest Federation. By combining native plants with hardy woody ornamentals, interesting landscape can be created that will enhance any property with drought-tolerant, disease- and insect-resistant plants. A little knowledge goes a long, long way.

Sun Gro Horticulture's Recipe for Success

Forestry/Native Plant Production

- ✓ Sunshine Forestry/Native Plant Growing Mixes
- ✓ Nutricote Controlled Release Fertilizer
- ✓ Sunshine Peat Moss
- ✓ Technigro Water Soluble Fertilizer
- ✓ Strong-Lite Vermiculite

Start with Sunshine Forestry/Native Plant Growing Mixes, specially developed for seedling production.

Or start with Sunshine Grower Orange, the peat moss grade that was developed in partnership with the forest seedling industry.

Nourish your seedlings with ^{NEW!} Nutricote to provide them with the precise amount of nutrients they need to grow over the long-term.

Additional feeding with Technigro fertilizer may be needed to give your seedlings the extra nourishment they need during early growth.

And finally, cover your seeds with Sunshine Vermiculite to ensure they are always moist.

Combine together and watch your seedlings GROW!

From seedling to sapling to standing timber, the recipe for success is no secret... strong growth depends on superior growing ingredients. That's why Sun Gro has been working with the Forest and Native Plant Industry for over a decade to provide premium growing mixes and peat moss, water-soluble fertilizer and horticultural minerals. We are now pleased to offer Nutricote Controlled Release Fertilizer to our ever-growing product mix. To find out more about our forest and native plant products, call your Sun Gro representative today!

Mountain firs, various pines. Treehaven specializes in the genus Abies (true firs), both native and nonnative. Nonnative types are mostly of China, Japan, and the Mediterranean region. Sales are to Christmas tree growers, landscapers, garden centers, universities, arboreta, and other nurseries and hob-byists. The Arboretum, in a 340-acre preserve in western NY, is a safe haven for many of these firs, being cultured for long-term propagation and source of future plant material.
The Arboretum will, in the future, offer additional plant material, such as alderwoods, tamarack, hostas, and rarer true firs.*

Tallgrass Prairie
CENTER

Native Seed Production Manual

The Tallgrass Prairie Center Native Seed Production Manual provides basic information for native seed production of nearly 50 species of the tallgrass prairie flora of the upper Mid-west. Compiled from native seed production experience at the Tallgrass Prairie Center, published research articles and technical notes, and Internet resources. Botanical nomenclature follows USDA PLANTS Database (<http://plants.usda.gov>).

The Washington Association of Conservation Districts Plant Materials Center (WACD PMC) is a conservation nursery located in Skagit County, Washington. It grows more than 70 species of native bareroot conservation seedlings, including conifers, shrubs, and deciduous trees. It also grows willows, cottonwoods, and red-osier dogwood live stakes for bioengineering. The WACD has operated this nursery since 1993. Since then, it has worked with conservationists and restorationists to develop a more survivable and vigorous plant. Some of these practices include propagating from source-identified seed, inoculating seedlings with mycorrhizae, and employing different root culturing practices such as root pruning and root wrenching. Contact the PMC to receive a catalog and information about the range of products and services that are offered.
