

REFEREED RESEARCH

Scarification and pre-chilling requirements for germination of the native forb Utah trefoil (Lotus utahensis Ottley) 148
Thomas A Jones, B Shaun Bushman, R Trapper Crockett, and Kyle C Forsyth

Using herbarium collections and species observation databases to assess the conservation status of prairie dropseed in Minnesota 156
Katherine Brewer, Nick Kreevich, Mary Meyer, Susan Galatowitsch, and Stan Hokanson

GERMPLASM RELEASE

Notice of release of Menard Germplasm purple threeawn: a selected class of natural germplasm 168
Anthony Falk, Forrest S Smith, Colin S Shackelford, John R Bow, Keith A Pawelek, Brandon Carr, and Dustin Wiggans

GENERAL TECHNICAL

Establishment and 10-year persistence of plant materials at Curlew National Grassland in southern Idaho 178
Derek Tilley, Mary Wolf, and Loren St John

NATIVE PLANT MATERIALS DIRECTORY

Alphabetical listing 194
 Location index 256

AUTHOR GUIDELINES

266

Photo credits: (top) NRCS Aberdeen Plant Material Center staff using a no-till cone seeder to plant experimental seed mixtures at Curlew National Grassland in southeastern Idaho, photo by Mary Wolf; (middle) spiny phlox (Phlox hoodii Richardson [Polemoniaceae]) sits in the understory of a basin big sagebrush (Artemisia tridentata Nutt. ssp. tridentata [Asteraceae]) community in southern Idaho, photo by Derek Tilley; (bottom) a measuring tape is laid for a line intercept transect at a study site in Curlew National Grassland in southeastern Idaho, photo by Derek Tilley.

Downloaded from by guest on February 24, 2024. Copyright 2022